Grammar

Likes and Dislikes

1. Individually, match the sentences on the left to the pictures on the right.

I. I like cold days! a)

II. I do not like hot days! b)

Aurora Alejandra Limón Aguirre, JALISCO

Answers: Ib, IIa

We use like to talk about the things we enjoy.

To talk about the things we do not enjoy, we use don't like/doesn't like.

Affirmative

When we talk about I, we, you, or they, like comes after the subject.

I/we/you/they + like + object

Example:

I like cold days.

When we talk about he, she, or it, we add an -s to like, and it comes after the subject.

he/she/it + likes + object

Examples:

He likes cold days.
She likes hot days.

Grammar

Has

We use has for third-person singular pronouns (he, she, and it) when we want to indicate ownership or refer to relationships.

Form	Structure	Examples	Use
Affirmative	subject + has + object	He has a backpack. She has a brother.	To indicate ownership or refer to relationships.
Negative	subject + doesn't have + object doesn't = does not	She doesn't have a plant. He doesn't have a sister.	To show there is no ownership nor a relationship.
Interrogative	does + subject + have + object + ?	Does he have a pen? Does she have an uncle?	To ask about ownership or relationships.

Individually, without forgetting that you are part of a community, look at the picture of the family and complete the sentences with the correct answer. Use has, doesn't have, and Does... have...?

a) Luis _____ a sister.
b) Luis _____ (not) two brothers.
c) _____ Luis _____ a son?
d) Ana _____ a brother.
e) Ana _____ (not) a sister.
f) _____ Ana _____ a dog?
g) María _____ two children.
h) María _____ (not) a cat.

Answers: a) has, b) doesn't have, c) Does / have, d) has, e) doesn't have, f) Does / have, g) has, h) doesn't have

Writing

1. In community, read the following text:

Family Day in Mexico

In Mexico, the first Sunday of every March is Family Day. This important day is dedicated to appreciating and spending time with your family. To celebrate this day at school, some children in Mexico City decided to draw their families and talk about them.
